'Worst Fuel Shortage' In Prospect, Ickes Says

WASHINGTON—Secretary of the Interior Ickes, requesting "preparefor-winter" drives in 25 states, said the worst fuel shortage of the war" is in prospect for winter.

As solid fuels administrator, Ickes asked the fuel conservation directors of 25 states to launch local drives immediately to place homes and other buildings in condition to keep people warm on short fuel quotas next winter.

The program is designed to make every home, shop and building "heat-tight" by insulation, storm doors and windows, weather-stripping, caulking cracks and by other means, Ickes said. He added in a statement that furnaces and other heating equipment should be put in efficient condition to save fuel.

Force Germans to Erect Memorial at Dachau

DACHAU, GERMANY. — Two acres columns 50 feet high, one topped by a Cross and the other by the Star of David, are being erected here by German civilians under the direction of A.M.G. authorities to mark the mass grave of 3,500 Dachau concentration camp victims.

The grave will be covered with grass blooming from April through November, and before it will be the columns and a spacious plaza. Nearby a quarter-mile of broad stone steps will lead up to the site, located on a hill north of the city.

The memorial will cost 500,000 marks—$50,000 at the military exchange rate — which will be drawn from German funds. The stone is coming from the great Nazi-built Nuernberg stadium.

More Wool Is Predicted As WPB Lifts Controls

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Increased output of topcoats, overcoats dresses and worsted suits was predicted recently by the war production board as the agency lifted controls on woolen and worsted fabrics. Improvement in the supply by next fall and winter was forecast.

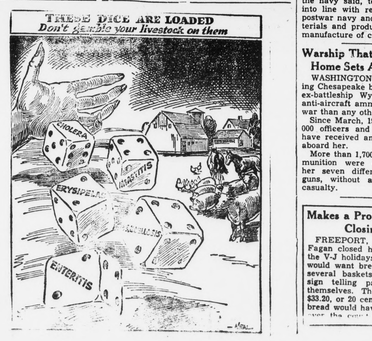
The WPB said the improvement will result from elimination of an order which had required manufacturers to set aside 65 per cent of worsted top production for military requirements.

The WPB said the military set aside no longer was necessary because requirements are being met by individual manufacturers.

Elephants Have Strong Union, Soldier Thinks

ROLLA, MO. — Lt. Col. Morris Suhre, just back from building roads and airfields in Assam, India, believes that elephants have the most effective trade union in the world.

The colonel said no matter how hard he tried, he couldn't get an elephant to work more than four hours a day.



Easy Credit for Builders Is Back

FHA Announces All Curbs On New Homes Are Off.

WASHINGTON. — Easy credit terms on home-building have come back to the nation. The home-building will follow shortly.

The Federal Housing administration announced it is returning to its prewar program of insuring mortgages on homes. Ten thousand private institutions — banks and others — stand ready to lend the money with FHA backing. Maybe you can't start building just yet, but you can start arranging a loan.

Under the FHA program, if you build a home costing less than $6,000 you have to put at least 10 per cent down payment, and can borrow the rest.

If the home costs between $6,000 and $10,000, you put up 10 per cent of the first $6,000 plus 20 per cent of the amount exceeding $6,000. If the cost is over $10,000, you have to put up 20 per cent of the whole amount.

The actual lending is done by building and loan associations, banks, and other financial institutions.

The FHA insures the loan. If the home-owner can't pay it back, the FHA takes the loss.

FHA insurance means the home owner gets easy terms, low monthly payments. The financial institution can't charge more than 4½ per cent interest. In addition the FHA takes ½ per cent a year as its insurance fee.

Loco Cattle Incurable, Veterinarians Are Told

CHICAGO.—In the Middle West "loco" is a slang word meaning a state of mental derangement, but in the cattle range country it spells fewer cattle and less meat in wartime or in peace.

A report made to the meeting of the American Veterinary Medical association summarized the story of the locoweed, and recorded that there is no treatment for cattle poisoned by eating it.

The only safe procedure is to bar cattle from pasture land where it is prevalent, the committee's report said.

Cattle that eat locoweed go quietly crazy, the report continued. If the poison affects the left side of the brain, they run in circles to the right, and vice versa.

Occasionally they stand with their legs crossed, a feat never accomplished by normal animals. They also fall asleep while standing, collapsing when they lose consciousness.

It takes weeks or even months before symptoms develop.

U. S. Battleship Indiana Chased Japs 180,000 Mi.

WASHINGTON. — Chasing the Japanese 180,000 miles between Guadalcanal and their home islands, the battleship Indiana participated in 7 major bombardments and her gunners shot down at least 15 enemy planes.

The Indiana's career, which began in November, 1942, was without reportable damage, although she was struck by a crashing Japanese torpedo plane during the battle of the Philippine sea, June 19, 1944, the navy disclosed recently.

The Indiana returned to the United States for routine overhaul only once since joining the Pacific fleet in 1942.

In February, 1945, she sailed within 60 miles of the Japanese coastline in the first Tokyo raid.

U. S. Navy Cuts Its Work Total of Six Billions

WASHINGTON. — The navy announced that it was cancelling nearly six billion dollars in prime contracts.

This is in addition to a recently announced cut of 1.2 billion dollars in the shipbuilding program.

The cancellations were ordered, the navy said, to bring production into line with requirements of the postwar navy and to free men, materials and productive capacity for manufacture of civilian goods.

Warship That Stayed at Home Sets AA Gun Record

WASHINGTON. — Without leaving Chesapeake bay, the 32-year-old ex-battleship Wyoming fired more anti-aircraft ammunition during the war than any other ship.

Since March, 1942, more than 35,000 officers and men of the fleet have received anti-aircraft training aboard her.

More than 1,700,000 rounds of ammunition were expended through her seven different kinds of AA guns, without a single personnel casualty.

FREEPORT, ILL.—When Leo Fagan closed his food store for the V-J holidays he knew people would want bread, so he placed several baskets outside with a sign telling patrons to serve themselves. They did, and left $33.20, or 20 cents more than the bread would have brought if sold ...

Tomatoes of 1946

Tomatoes, already rating high in vitamin content, being second only to oranges in vitamin C, will be "enriched" with vitamin A, following work at University of Chicago.

Tomato cannery wastes will be put to use. Oil being extracted from the seeds, cannery waste will provide an extracted ether soluble fraction of 12.4 per cent.

By treating plants with the fumes of a growth-promoting acid, naphthoxyacetic, seedless tomatoes may be produced.

The skins of tomatoes are being used for the valuable resin they contain. An improved method of dehydrating tomatoes promises to make them of commercial importance.

Creep-Fed Pigs Grow Bigger in Less Time

When pigs on rye pasture were creep-fed, 5.6 per cent more of the pigs survived to weaning age than when they were forced to eat with the sows, experiments at the University of Illinois reveal.

The average daily gains of the pigs are greater under the creep-feeding method. The difference noted of .08 pound per pig a day is of doubtful significance, but the total gain for 100 pigs would amount to 8 pounds in favor of those fed in the creep. If fed for 40 days, the 100 creep-fed pigs would show a difference of 240 pounds more pork up to weaning time.

Farm Fire Losses

Fire extinguishers are again available for the farmer. Where fires in wood, paper, cloth or hay break out, suitable types of extinguishers are the pump tank, soda acid, foam, gas cartridge, or loaded stream types.

Soda acid and foam extinguishers must be kept where they will not be exposed to freezing temperatures, or else be housed in suitably heated cabinets, and they require annual recharging.

MILTON ALLEN ALMOND

ALMOND— In loving memory of our son and brother, Milton Allen Almond, who departed this life one year ago, October 18th, Time speeds on, one year has passed,
Since death its gloom and shadow cast.
Within our home where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light and always will;
His vacant place here none can fill.
And here we mourn,
But not in vain,
For up in heaven,
We'll meet again.
—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Almond and Family.

Leatherneck Expects Worst from Foxholes

IE SHIMA (Delayed)—A Leatherneck attached to a Marine Air Group here is beginning to wonder which is more dangerous—Jap bombers or getting into foxholes.

During a night raid here, reports Staff Sgt. Robert W. Harvey, Marine Corps combat correspondent, the Marine ran from his tent, stepped smack into a bucket of wet clothes and skidded the rest of the way to the foxhole on his face.

A few nights later the raiders struck while he was playing cards. His legs were twisted around the supports of a camp chair. His legs and the chair were nearly broken in the ensuing tangle.

A third raid recently forced him to dive for a nearby weed-covered ditch. The ditch had a rock in it. Now he has a three-inch gash in his shoulder.

"Next time there'll probably be a snake in the foxhole," he predicted gloomily.
